

Canada's National Firearms Association

Frequently Asked Insurance Questions

Q What are the sanctioned NFA activities?

A All legal hunting activities, all legal shooting activities, all legal fishing activities, all legal bow hunting activities, all legal archery activities, all legal re-enactment activities, all Canada's National Firearms Association sanctioned social and/or fundraising activities.

*social and/or fundraising activities shall be covered, but only if sanctioned by the Canada's National Firearms Association.

Q What is Commercial General Liability insurance?

A The primary purpose of a Commercial General Liability policy is to protect against lawsuits from individuals alleging that a Named Insured (NFA club &/or members) have negligently caused third party "bodily injury" &/or "property damage".

Q What does the Directors and Officers insurance cover?

A The Directors and Officers Errors & Omissions insurance provides Errors and Omissions (Directors & Officers Wrongful Acts) coverage for those sums that the insured becomes legally obligated to pay as compensatory damages because of a 'wrongful act' to which this insurance applies. "Wrongful act" means: a. Any actual or alleged error, misstatement, or misleading statement by an insured; b. Any actual or alleged act, omission, neglect or breach of duty by an insured; A wrongful act does not include any activity or an insured who is a member of a licensed or certified profession where such activity is related to the practice of such profession, whether on a voluntary basis or otherwise.

Q How does a club insure non-members?

A Non-members must be registered as guests. A registry recording their name, address, contact information and date they were a guest must be maintained and available if requested.

Q Can my spouse's membership extend insurance coverage to me?

A No, each individual must be a registered, paid up member of the NFA to be covered by the insurance.

Q Does the NFA insurance policy include coverage for firearm instruction?

A The NFA insurance policy includes coverage for firearm instruction, as long as prior approval has been obtained from the insurance company for each instructor & the course has been approved by the NFA. Additional premium may apply.

Q Are re-enactment activities covered under the policy?

A Yes, provided you have joined the NFA as a member.

Q Does the policy extend to re-enactments involving black powder?

A Yes. So long as all black powder activities are considered “legal firing” and appropriate approvals/permits have been obtained.

Q Does the policy provide coverage to members going hunting or fishing?

A Coverage does extend to include members whilst engaged in hunting or fishing however coverage is only excess insurance to any other valid liability policy.

Q Does the liability insurance provide coverage for a member while operating their all-terrain vehicle?

A Coverage under the NFA liability policy does not extend to include all-terrain vehicles.

Q Horses are occasionally included in our re-enactment group. Does the insurance policy extend to their activity?

A Any activities involving horses are not covered. However, if the clubs activities are not directly related to the use of a horse (ie: third party using horse at an event the club is re-enacting at), this exclusion does not preclude coverage for typically approved NFA activities just because a horse is at the event.

Q Other gun clubs/third parties use our facilities. How does our NFA coverage apply?

A Other gun clubs/third parties need to have their own insurance for their activities. If you are permitting other clubs/third parties to use your facilities, you should request they provide proof of insurance with your club being added to their insurance as additional insured.

Q I see that the insurance does not cover business activities. How is this defined?

A A business activity would be ongoing recurring activities involved in the running of a business for the purpose of producing value for the owner.

Q Is the member covered by liability for sanctioned firearm / hunting or fishing anywhere in the world?

A Yes. So long as they are a Canadian citizen & their primary residence is in Canada.

Q What does “medical expense” on the policy cover?

A This is voluntary coverage with no requirement to be legally liable. For example, if a guest falls and an ambulance is called, medical expense coverage could be used to pay the ambulance bill.

Q Do I need to be a resident of Canada to be covered under the NFA insurance policy?

A Yes. You must be a resident of Canada to be covered as a member of the NFA. The only exception is if you are registered as a guest.

Q We use watercrafts during re-enactment activities. Does the insurance policy cover a claim caused by a boat?

A Commercial General Liability policies are not intended to provide primary coverage for the use of watercrafts. The best way to insure this exposure is with a watercraft policy. Any time a watercraft is involved, the club should request confirmation of primary coverage from the owner of the watercraft, this should name the club as Additional Insured.

Q How does a club ensure that they have obtained approval for events (gun shows, etc.)?

A A Special Events Application must be completed & sent in to the insurance company for approval. Certain activities will result in additional premiums.

Q Does the liability policy have an age restriction for insured members?

A No. The policy will only coverage legal activities. You must ensure you are following the government requirements for various age groups when it comes to firearm use.
